Two—at the price of one ... Workshop readies 'Pagliacci' 'Valley' for March showing

The operas "Pagliacci" and "Down in the Valley" are to be presented by the Opera Workshop March 1, 2, 3 and 4 under the direction of Acting Director Newell Weicht.

"Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo, one of the favorite Italian operas, tells the story of the "eternal triangle" in the company of a traveling roadshow.

Using a "play within a play" technique Leoncavallo deftly presents his plot.

The opera is approximately 50 minutes long, and has a double cast that will alternate during the four nights the two operas will be presented.

Cast as Nedda, the only female principal, are Marcene Camp, Castello, Ida, and Dixie Mecham, Salt Lake City; as Canio, Nedda's husband, Eldon Wood, Buhl, Ida, and John Corey, Provo. As Tonio, the hunchback, Howard Pulnam, Woodruff, and Moyle Brown, Weiser, Idaho. As Pezzo, the harlequin, Vern Vio, Cowley, Wyo., and Rex

Johnson, Arlington, Va. John Hyde from Provo plays Silvio, Nedda's lover.

"Down in the Valley" by Karl Wallis, libretto by Arnold Sangerfarr, who also wrote the libretto of "Primm-land Valley", is an American folk opera depicting the life of the mountain folk of the deep south. Many familiar folk tunes are used with considerable harmonic and rhythmic treatment.

Written in 1948, "Down in the Valley" has been very popular and has been performed in 100 cities during the past season.

Some opera companies have performed it as often as 50 times in a single season.

The entire opera lasts only 35 minutes. Cast as Brack Weaver, the hero, is Lynn Detwiler, All, loona, Pa. Jennie, the heroine, Charlotte Jones, Magna and Collen Riggs, Chandler, Ariz. The leader is sung by Joe Hill, Udon, Ida. The adversary is Earl Reed, Provo, and the Preacher Jay Provost, Oakley, Ida.

Pianist sets Feb. 8 appearance on Y-Community lyceum series

by Reid Fillmore
Alexander Uinsky, the Russian pianist, joins the ranks of famous artists who have appeared on the Brigham Young University lyceum series when he performs Feb. 8, at 8:15 in the Provo Tabernacle.

After beginning his study at the Kiev Conservatory in the city where he was born, he went to the Paris Conservatory of Music at the age of 13 to continue his work. Four years later he was graduated from the institution with high honors.

At the outbreak of the second World War he interrupted a tour of the Far East to return to his adopted homeland and join the French Army.

He had a thrilling army career in which he was captured by the Nazis. Having spent some time as a prisoner, he finally escaped and returned to Paris only to find that the Germans had occupied the city.

When he eventually found his comrades, he was given permission to sail for South America where he began a tour of that continent.

Since his South American debut he has become famous the world over. He made his initial appearance in the United States in 1942. Following his debut in Carnegie Hall he was immediately acclaimed by the critics. He is now making his second tour of the North American continent.

An example of how wrapped up he gets in his music is illustrated by a story of his own telling. According to Mr. Uinsky, a gentleman came backstage between numbers and said to him, "Mr. Uinsky I am so impressed with your playing of Chopin that I want you to promise me that when I die you will play his 'Funeral March' at my funeral." To this request the abashedly replied, "Yes, with pleasure, when!"

Fraternity to hear lecture by Nibley

Dr. Hugh Nibley, prof of history at Brigham Young University, will present the second annual Pi Sigma Alpha lecture at the University of Utah, Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 8 p.m.

Speaking on the subject "The Hierocratic State," Dr. Nibley will be a feature of the U. of U. 1850-1950 centennial. The Institute of Government is sponsoring the lecture.

Pi Sigma Alpha is a national honorary political science fraternity.

After receiving his A. B. degree at the University of California in Los Angeles, and his Ph. D. at the University of California in Berkeley, Dr. Nibley was a faculty member at Scripps, Pomona, and Claremont graduate schools before coming to BYU.

Dr. Nibley will elaborate on a subject evolving around the idea that "... certain ancients were obsessed with the idea of a single point in the universe at which all time and space came together."

The public is invited to the program which will be held in the Union Building Ballroom at the U. of U.

'She Stoops to Conquer' tryouts slated Thursday

Opening tryouts for "She Stoops to Conquer" will be held Thursday and Friday from 3-5 p.m. in Mr. Clinger's office in the Speech Center.

Scripts for the play are on reserve in the library. Students who want to try out should select a scene of the comedy they want to play and have it ready to present in the scheduled tryout time.

Planning field trip? Check Health Center

Brigham Young University Health Center authorities urge all students intending to go on field trips or local canyon field trips to come to the Health Center and get immunization shots to prevent Rocky Mountain tick fever.

Hutch paces Y over sad Rams

The Brigham Young Cougars temporarily tied the Wyoming Cowboys for leadership in the Skyline Six by sweeping a two-game series with the Colorado Rams at Springville over the weekend. The boys from Fort Collins threw a scare into State Watts' men on Friday night, finally losing a 46-41 contest to the Cougars. Saturday night was a different story as the Cats sewed up the game early in the second half and went on to win 56-41.

Friday big Mel Hutchins put on a great show for the local fans as he tallied 50 and was great off the backboard. Joe Nelson, with the help of some fine foul shooting, was second high for the Cougars with 12, and Roland Minson close behind with 11.

The Cougars got off to a slow start the first half and only Hutch and Minnie were able to hit from the floor. Three field goals apiece by O'Boyle, Allen and Anderson gave the Rams a substantial 22-14 lead at halftime. But the Cougars came roaring back in the second half, scoring 4 points before Anderson dropped a foul. Trailing 30-27 the Cats again spurred for a point and led until the Rams tied the score at 36. Hutch scored on a layup and Nelson a foul but Allen tallied.

Honor salesmen will complete indoctrination talks today

Approximately 25 representatives have been visiting religion classes this week, to give a 15 minute talk designed to familiarize all students with the "Honor System" now in effect, according to Edward G. Marshall, Las Vegas, Nev. honor education committee chairman.

The special campaign has been organized in an attempt to contact every student of the university and explain what the honor system is and what is expected under it.

Each delegate is responsible for contacting an assigned number of classes. The committee expects to contact approximately 100 classes before the campaign closes.

The Honor code was adopted last spring by the university student body, and went into effect this autumn quarter.

ter. Short and concise, the code is a statement of policy based on the ideals which it assumes students bring with them to the campus.

An open forum was held Monday in the Messer Assembly Hall as part of the indoctrination program. The question and answer session was open to all students.

Honor Council slated to handle Thurs. assembly

"Heaven and the Realm of the Devil," is scheduled for the Thursday student body assembly.

Sponsored by the Honor Council, the assembly will present the views and opinions of both estates of the Honor System on our campus.

Another weekend of parties and celebrations, with no apparent care for approaching mid-terms, is no longer with us. Who has more courage than members of the BYU student body?

Topping the weekend dances was the Gamma Taux Invitational. The theme "You Are Always in My Heart" was centered in a Valentine atmosphere. A huge humorous valentine was featured in one corner opposed by a large romantic one in the opposite corner. Needless to say more attention was centered around the romantic heart blocking the view there were couples like Daryl Jeffs and Janice Parker, De Loyal Billie and Gerrie Anderson, Boyd Droman and Dorra Jean Cameron and Allen Tuttle and Carmee Messon. (Also and Carmee happen to be engaged).

Alpha Phi's celebrated their first birthday Friday night, in the Joseph Smith Ballroom, amid birthday cakes, candles and dancing couples like Helen Denslow and Hal Newberry.

The Beta Psi's return lady missionary organization, went over-land Friday night with a "Neptune Under the Sea" semi-formal dance. The dance was for the Beta Psi's and the Delta Phi's and their dates, and they turned out in mass. Dale Criddle and Kathleen Bowen announced their engagement. Other couples there who are often seen together were Claire Judy and the gal who is wearing his Delta Phi pin, Sannette Andelin and Jim Glen and Amelia Olsen.

Out of the romantic field, but definitely star attraction was Ardian Watts, Delta Psi goat and pianist from Idaho Falls, who played a 15 minute concert for intermission. That man is one of the Y's greatest vet.

The To Kallen's and their Knaves did more than steal hearts, a few hearts were also involved in the theft. The center of attraction was a huge fairy tale replicas of the Knave of hearts and the queen reflected by colored lights. Dancers revving in the night and the music were Ober Macell and Dick Holden and Barbara Koeckley and Renee Jones and Lillie Belle Peterson and Glenn Penning.

"My King of Hearts" theme of the Cesta Invitational and title of original song by Carolyn Thompson and Phyllis Nixon was evident at the Federation room Saturday night. Some of the Cesta's there with their kings of hearts were Eleanor Weed and Frank Wrencher, Elaine Evans and Jess Bromley, Marilyn Miles and Deog Anderson and Mardine Moulton and Don Dries.

KBYU features
casaba, socials

KBYU is featuring the school basketball games for the first time in its history. These games are brought through the courtesy of KOVO. Freshman games are also being broadcast by KBYU sportscasters through their own facilities.

A new program which is being broadcast is "The Social Unit of the Week." This program features a different unit each week, presenting it on the air so that they might tell of the unit's objectives, talents and accomplishments.

Programs beginning from seven to eleven nightly, and 4:30 to 5:30 a.m. five days a week, bring both canned music and live talent to KBYU listeners. Talent shows as "Live-Your," "Talent-Time" and "Piano and Fatter" provide opportunities for campus talent. Try-outs for these shows are held and new talent is welcome at anytime.

Monday night brings school games, while Tuesday brings "They Tell Me" by Donnette Merrill, a program of current fashions, personalities and play reviews. Also there is "Meditations With Morgan" on Fridays and the "600 Club" nightly.

"Six Lines of Progression" is a progressive show that comes nightly along with "Dreamtime," a program of dreamy music. "Good Intention" is a nightly request show. Shows of the higher bracket such as "The Tabernacle Choir" and "An Hour of the Classics" give entertainment to all.

The "Dramatic Radio Workshop" is presenting a program, "Salute to Provo" which consists of historical events.

Anyone is invited to attend staff meetings on Tuesday at the Speech Center.

"Ladies and gents, where are you...?"

Those lucky students who don't have to vacate the sack on weekday mornings and tune in to KBYU got a surprise last Tuesday when they tuned in to 660 and heard—nothing.

Come now the explanation.

Dave Weiser, talented but unbreakable disc jockey, had started his show at 6:30 a.m. and continued until 1 a.m. It was only when he went to turn off the key that he realized that his Hooper had been zero for two and half hours. He'd forgotten to go on the air.

Dave, who aspires to be a sports announcer, could get a job broadcasting for the New York Giant baseball games. They'd be less painful—Weiser style.

Council office given color dip

The University's gigantic counter expansion program continued at a full clip last Saturday as members of the Student Council painted and stained their newly partitioned offices in the Bookstore Building.

Working at a feverish pace so typical of the eager executives, the crew of three boys and two girls slapped a color covering on the pre-fab walls of their two window office.

The spirit of the endeavor was best expressed by one of the Y's slightly off-color gagsters (because of the paint, that is). His cheese-cake beret lay slightly askew on his head as he said:

"We all knew that it might be a decade or so before we find a real home, so we figured we'd better take care of what we have. We just hope the janitor will stop confusing our office, now that it's painted, with his broom closet."

The new offices will continue to house the Council offices, AWS, AMS, offices, the student program bureau offices and the local chapter of the Orem lonely hearts club.

National Sports

by Dan Clay

There has been quite a rhubarb for the past several months over the upholding of the Sanity Code. Now for those who are not too familiar with it the Sanity Code is a set of rules established by the National Collegiate Athletic Association to keep college athletes strictly amateur. Virtually every college in the country, 270 in all, belongs to the NCAA which until last January 14, had quite a say in policies regarding intercollegiate athletics. But let's go back a couple of months and pick up the story.

It seems that that NCAA found that seven colleges hadn't been living up to either the spirit or the letter of the Sanity Code. Now this serbe would be willing to give 13 to 5 odds that 98% per cent of the nation's colleges have violated knowingly, at least one of the five provisions. The seven schools cited were: the University of Virginia, VMI, VPI, The Citadel, the University of Maryland, Boston College and Villanova.

It was argued and proposed that these colleges be boycotted by expulsion from the NCAA and therefore dropped from all scheduled games. South Carolina's withdrawal from the Union led to the Civil War so it was altogether fitting that The Citadel located at Greenville, South Carolina, should be the first to withdraw from the NCAA. But let's get on with the story.

The annual convention of the NCAA met in New York and on January 14, went to work to decide the fate of the malleous offenders. After much hargling a vote was taken. The results were in 111 favor of ouster and 93 against it, quite short of the necessary two-thirds vote.

Probably most of the 83 votes came from colleges whose backyards are not too well in order and feared the axe might fall on them as it looked out that 10 more colleges were due to fall at the next convention. It is also possible that some of the dissenting votes came from colleges that might not appreciate the financial loss of a big gate next fall. Whatever the reason, all the malleous offenders are with the exception of The Citadel, again members of the NCAA in good standing.

By this time you are probably wondering just what the Sanity Code really is. Well, let's run over the five provisions of the Code, adopted two years ago.

1. Athletics shall be admitted to the institution on the same basis as other studies and shall be required to maintain the same academic standards.

Good point. Agreed?

Financial aid may be given athletes only (a) if awarded on the basis of need by the regular agency for giving aid to all students; (b) if awarded on the basis of high scholarship; (c) if awarded on the basis of qualifications of which athletic ability is not one.

Take a look at part C again. Why should an athlete be discriminated against? There is plenty of room for professional athletes nowadays. There are doctors, lawyers, and other professional men. Why handicap a man because his trade is sports?

3. No institution shall solicit any prospective athlete with an offer of financial aid.

It's kind of tough these days to get hold of an athlete without having something to offer him. Ask any college coach.

4. Compensation of an athlete shall be commensurate with the service rendered.

It would be mighty difficult to work and practice and adhere to rule number one.

5. An athlete may be given incidental benefits such as medical attention and meals while on sanctioned trips and one meal a day during practice periods on the campus.

That sounds pretty fair here.

That is the Sanity Code or the "Insanity Code" as it is often referred to.

The results of the recent rhubarb can be summed up briefly. The NCAA as an organization to determine policies effecting the amateur standings of colleges is over. From now on it will be up to the individual conferences to handle such matters. It's our opinion that a set of rules should be set so that one college would not have the advantage over another in inducing athletes to enroll.

Bowling continues

Intramural bowling teams will again take to the alleys at the Regal Recreation Center, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to Clarence Robison, director of men's intramural activities.

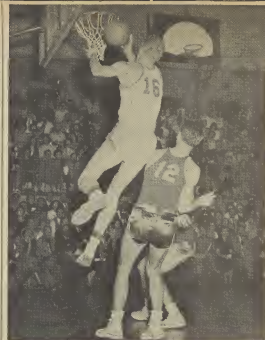

To date a definite schedule for the Keglers hasn't been drawn up, because of the few teams that have turned out for league play. Robison expects, however, to get a schedule worked out this Wednesday.

Social unit teams, especially, are urged to send howlers to the Wednesday afternoon league. According to Robison, howling is one of the activities that counts towards winning the intramural all-around cup at the end of the year.

Toft runs wild

Dale Toft, Denver's classy soph. center, very nearly fractured the Skyline Six scoring record last Saturday night against Utah. While his teammates were collaborating with him in a 60-44 trouncing of the Redskins, Toft got hot in the second half and scored 30 points, giving him a total of 37 for the night.

The record is currently held by the man Toft succeeded at Denver, Vince Booyla. Vince, now starring with the professional New York Knickerbockers, tallied 39 points against BYU last season to top Joe Nelson's previous mark, which was 37.

led a one hander and a foul and tied the score at 39.

But Hutch scored again to give the Cougars a two point lead. Anderson sank a foul and then committed his fifth personal with but a few minutes to go. Hutch converted and BYU led 42-40. Here O'Boyle dropped a long set to tie the score at the two minute period began. Then Hutch finished the scoring with two foul conversions and a layup to give the Cougars victory. The Cougars in winning hit on 17 shots on only 47 attempts while the Rams hit on 17 for 45 attempts.

The game Saturday night saw the Cougars have things pretty much their own way, being threatened only twice.

The Cats jumped off to a 20-11 lead but the Rams rallied and at half-time BYU led 29-25.

After eight minutes of the second half had been played the Cougars had built up a 38-24 lead. But the stubborn Rams refused to give up and put on a rally that brought them to within three points of the Cats, 38-35. Here the Cougars went to work and put the game on ice. Mission tipped one in and hit on a one hander.

Whipple hit from under the basket and Romney from the side to give the home team a 46-35 lead. Then the reserves took over and with only three minutes left to play continued the scoring.

Joe Nelson was high man for the Cougars with 16 points, 10 of which came from the foul line. Mel Hotchkiss was second with 12 and Roland and Mission tallied 10.

The Cats have now won eight straight hall games including two each over everyone in the conference but Wyoming. So with one half of the conference race over, the real two team race is on. At this point one loss by either the Cougars or the Cowboys could mean the difference between first and second place in the final standings.

Grapplers lose to Colorado

BYU's varsity grapplers lost their second match of the season last Thursday at the Woman's Gym, when the powerful Colorado University Buffs won the dual meet, 31-2.

The Buffs victory gave them a clean sweep against the Utah's college grapplers, since they won from Utah State, 26-0, Wednesday, and over Utah, 28-6, Wednesday night.

Alvin Dalley, BYU heavyweight scored the only points for the Cougars wrestling Charles Breinig of Colorado to a draw in the final match of the afternoon.

The Cougars defaulted in the 136-pound event as both their representatives were injured.

Results: 121 pounds—Bob Hunter threw Dick Phelps, 4-0; 145-pound Nelson and body press; 145 pounds—Will Lynch threw Eldon Taylor, 5-0, body press; 155—Bill French defeated George Miller, six points to none; 156 pounds—Harry Nance defeated Bevan Haycock, five points to one; 175 pounds—Rex Sheppard defeated Ray Oliveron, five points to three; heavyweight—Charles Breinig (CU) and Alvin Dalley (BYU) drew, one point each.

Merrill Craft, chairman of the intermountain AAU wrestling committee, refereed the matches.

Five BYU boxers to fight in Gloves

Brigham Young University is being represented by five aspiring leather pushers in the annual Utah Golden Gloves tournament which got off to a slam-bang start at the Ogden High School Gymnasium.

All of the BYU entries are fighting in the lighter weights. The boys have been training daily for some time in preparation for the "Gloves," which is the biggest amateur tournament in the country. The Y will be represented by Don Kennington, 147 lb. class;

John Ige, 135 lb. class; Carl Uyeda, 128 lb. class; Jonathan "Shorty" Shiroda, 116 lb. class, in the Senior Division. Wayne Tanner, 147 lb. class will fight in the Junior Division.

Three of the boys are natives of the Hawaiian Islands. One of the Islanders, Jonathan "Shorty" Shiroda, has an excellent chance of coming out on top in the lightweight division, according to those who have seen him in action down at the gym.

Two more boys from the Islands fighting for "fun" are John Ige and Carl Uyeda. Both of these boys have had no experience in the ring but will make a good showing by virtue of their natural ability and willingness to mix it.

Local boxing fans have had the opportunity to see Don Kennington in action down at the local arena. Don, who calls Star Valley, Wyoming, his home, should be in the money when the titles are decided next Friday night.

Placid prelims ...

Y Kittens top Tooele twice

BYU's once-defeated frosh squad had an easy time of it this past weekend, winning a pair of games by the nearly identical scores of 56-38, and 53-39, from Tooele Ordinance.

The visitors were clearly outclassed in both games by the Kittens. Coach Wayne Soffe cleared his bench on both nights, giving his entire 12 man squad a chance to see some action in the two encounters.

The Friday night game was fairly close for a half. At the start of the second half, Coach Soffe inserted Bert Jarman, bothered by a charley-horse into the line-up. With Dunn and Jarman working the double post, the Kittens piled up a big lead, which the second string held.

Joe Richey emerged from his scoring slump to lead his mates with 15 counters while Lee paced Tooele with 12. Saturday night, the lane was never in doubt. Ten men broke
